I wanted to find others like me out there. I only found people displaced by natural disasters. They take all of the media's attention and the government's funding. It makes my situation clearer. I feel less rage. It is a sign to move forward and not look back but I do not have that luxury. I have to provide services. These kinds of situations do not offer a foresight. It would not benefit the upper hand to provide a path towards independence.

I did not waive my equality of contract. I came empty-handed, with nothing but my body and labor to exchange, induced by the denial of process.
